The effect of oleanolic acid on the biosynthesis of the 5-lipoxygenase products 5-hydroxy-6,8,11,14-eicosatetraenoic acid and leukotriene B4 in rat peritoneal macrophages was studied. Oleanolic acid, as well as indomethacin, inhibited 5-lipoxygenase activity in a concentration-dependent manner with an ED50 of 3.4 and 12.5 microM, respectively. The enzyme activity and 5-lipoxygenase products were strongly inhibited by oleanolic acid (ED50 = 0.2 microM) and indomethacin (ED50 = 0.2 microM) even when the cells were stimulated by thapsigargin (1 microM). Oleanolic acid was much more effective than indomethacin. The inhibition of 5-lipoxygenase by oleanolic acid was reversible, but indomethacin-induced inhibition of 5-lipoxygenase was irreversible. The inhibition of 5-lipoxygenase activity by oleanolic acid was not due to its cytotoxicity. Efficacy and safety of tigecycline in
